How to Solve a Globe and Mail Cryptic Crossword

Understanding Clue Structure

Each cryptic clue typically contains two components: a definition and a wordplay element. The definition gives a hint at the answer's meaning, while the wordplay provides instructions for manipulating letters or words. Recognizing this dual structure is key to cracking the puzzle.

Decoding Wordplay

Wordplay can take many forms, including anagrams, hidden words, double definitions, homophones, and charades. Solvers must carefully dissect each clue, looking for indicator words that reveal the type of wordplay involved.

Step-by-Step Solving Approach

1. Read all clues before starting to spot easy entries.
2. Identify clues with obvious definitions or familiar wordplay.
3. Fill in answers that cross with each other to gain more letters.
4. Revisit difficult clues with fresh perspective.
5. Use elimination and deduction to work out tricky entries.

Common Types of Clues in Globe and Mail Cryptic Crosswords

Anagrams

Anagram clues involve rearranging letters to form the answer. Indicator words such as “broken,” “mixed,” or “twisted” signal an anagram.

Double Definitions

Double definition clues offer two separate meanings for the same word, challenging solvers to find a term that fits both contexts.

Charades

Charade clues require solvers to combine smaller words or parts to create a longer word or phrase.

Hidden Words

Hidden word clues embed the answer within a phrase or sentence, indicated by words like “inside” or “contained.”

Homophones

Homophone clues play on words that sound alike, often signaled by phrases like “heard” or “sounds like.”

Benefits of Solving Cryptic Crosswords

Engaging with cryptic crosswords Globe and Mail offers numerous cognitive and psychological benefits. Solvers develop stronger language skills, enhance their lateral thinking, and enjoy improved memory and attention to detail. The puzzle’s unique demands foster creativity and mental flexibility.

Cryptic Crossword Globe and Mail: A Solver's Guide

Are you a devotee of the cryptic crossword, particularly the challenging puzzles found in the Globe and Mail? Do you find yourself wrestling with clues, yearning for that "aha!" moment? This comprehensive guide dives deep into the world of the Globe and Mail's cryptic crosswords, offering tips, tricks, and insights to help you conquer even the most fiendish puzzles. We'll explore common clue types, strategies for solving, and resources to improve your skills, transforming you from a struggling solver to a confident cruciverbalist.

Understanding the Globe and Mail Cryptic Crossword

The Globe and Mail cryptic crossword, renowned for its wit and difficulty, stands apart from simpler crosswords. Instead of direct definitions, clues employ wordplay, misdirection, and cryptic devices to conceal the answer. Understanding these techniques is crucial to success. Unlike American-style cryptic crosswords, which often have more straightforward definitions, the Globe and Mail puzzles lean towards a more British style, known for its concise and often more challenging clues.

Decoding Cryptic Clues: Common Clue Types

Mastering the Globe and Mail cryptic crossword requires understanding its core clue types. Here are some of the most frequently encountered:

1. Double Definitions:

These clues present two definitions of the answer, often subtly related. For example, "Bird's home" could be NEST.

2. Anagrams:

Clues indicate that the answer is an anagram of a given word or phrase. Indicators like "confused," "jumbled," or "mixed up" often signal anagrams. For instance, "Mixed-up rodent" might lead to MOUSER.

3. Hidden Words:

The answer is hidden within the clue itself. For example, "The answer is here in the clue" reveals the answer "HERE".

4. Container Clues:

One word is placed inside another to form the answer. Words like "holding," "containing," or "embracing" are common indicators. For example, "Painter holding a small tool" could be BRUSH(holding a small tool).

5. Reversal Clues:

The answer is a word spelled backwards. Indicators include "rising," "backward," or "returning."

6. Homophones:

The answer sounds like another word in the clue. Clues might include "sounds like," "heard as," or similar phrases.

Strategies for Success: Tips and Techniques

Tackling a Globe and Mail cryptic crossword effectively requires a strategic approach:

Start with the Easy Clues: Begin by identifying the easiest clues – those that might be straightforward definitions or simple anagrams. These will provide initial letters and words to help fill in the grid.

Look for Crossings: Pay close attention to the intersecting letters. These can significantly aid in identifying potential answers.

Consider Different Interpretations: Cryptic clues can be ambiguous. Be prepared to explore various possibilities.

Don't Be Afraid to Guess: If you're stuck, try educated guesses based on possible answers that fit the crossing letters.

Check Your Work: Regularly review your answers to ensure consistency and accuracy.

Resources for Improving Your Skills

The journey to mastering the Globe and Mail cryptic crossword is a continuous learning process.

Here are some resources that can help:

Online Cryptic Crossword Solvers: Several websites offer cryptic crossword solvers, providing explanations and tips for individual clues.

Cryptic Crossword Books and Tutorials: Numerous books delve into the art of cryptic crossword solving.

Online Forums and Communities: Engage with other solvers online to share tips and strategies. These communities often provide support and valuable insights.

Practice, Practice, Practice: The key to improvement is consistent practice. Regularly solving Globe and Mail crosswords and other cryptic puzzles will greatly enhance your skills.

Conclusion

The Globe and Mail cryptic crossword presents a unique and stimulating challenge. By understanding the different clue types, employing effective strategies, and utilizing available resources, you can significantly improve your solving skills and experience the immense satisfaction of conquering these intricate puzzles. Remember to stay persistent and enjoy the journey!

Frequently Asked Questions

Q1: What makes the Globe and Mail cryptic crossword so challenging?

A1: The Globe and Mail cryptic crossword incorporates a sophisticated blend of wordplay, misdirection, and concise cluing, often employing British-style cryptic techniques which can be more nuanced than those found in other publications. The difficulty lies in deciphering the multiple layers of meaning within each clue.

Q2: Are there different levels of difficulty within the Globe and Mail crossword?

A2: While the Globe and Mail doesn't explicitly label its cryptic crossword by difficulty, the difficulty can vary from day to day. Some days the clues might be more straightforward, while others will be exceptionally challenging. Consistent practice is key to improving your ability to tackle various difficulty levels.

Q3: Where can I find the Globe and Mail cryptic crossword online?

A3: The Globe and Mail cryptic crossword is typically available both in the print edition and on the Globe and Mail website's online subscription service.

Q4: What are some common indicators to look for in cryptic clues?

A4: Common indicators include words signaling anagrams (e.g., "jumbled," "mixed"), hidden words (often implied by the clue's phrasing), reversals ("backward," "up"), containers ("holding,"

"containing"), and homophones ("sounds like," "heard as").

Q5: Is there a specific order I should tackle the clues?

A5: While there's no single "right" order, many solvers find success by starting with the easier clues - often those with clearer definitions or simpler wordplay - to gain a foothold and reveal crossing letters that can aid in solving more complex clues later.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: Reality Hunger David Shields, 2010-02-25 Reality Hunger is a manifesto for a burgeoning group of interrelated but unconnected artists who, living in an unbearably artificial world, are breaking ever larger chunks of 'reality' into their work. The questions Shields explores - the bending of form and genre, the lure and blur of the real - play out constantly around us, and Reality Hunger is a radical reframing of how we might think about this 'truthiness': about literary licence, quotation, and appropriation in television, film, performance art, rap, and graffiti, in lyric essays, prose poems, and collage novels. Drawing on myriad sources, Shields takes an audacious stance on issues that are being fought over now and will be fought over far into the future. Converts will see Reality Hunger as a call to arms; detractors will view it as an occasion to defend the status quo. It is certain to be one of the most controversial and talked about books of the season.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: Chinkstar Jon Chan Simpson, 2015-07-13 Everything was about to change. In less than forty-eight hours guy'd be taking the stage in Vancouver, owning an audience meant for some all-hype-no-talent young-money rapper, spitting next-level truths that'd have A&Rs scrapping for him coast to coast. He'd ink some paper and drop an album on the world it didn't even know it had been waiting for. All with game and swag to spare. This was the edge, the almost there, and we knew it. Chinksta rap is all the rage in small-town Alberta. And the king of Chinksta is King Kwong, high-schooler Run's older brother. Run isn't a fan of Kwong's music—or personality, really. But when Kwong goes missing the night before his crowning performance and his mom gets wounded in crossfire, Run finds himself, with his sidekick, Ali, in the middle of a violent battle between rival Chinese rap gangs, on the run from his crush's behemoth brother, and rethinking his feelings about his family and their history, his hatred of rice-rap, and what it means to be Asian. With imaginAsian and a flair for the rap lyric, Jon Chan Simpson mashes up the (graphicless) graphic novel and the second-generation-immigrant narrative to forge a bold new vision of what the novel can be. Jonathan Chan Simpson grew up in Red Deer, Alberta, and lives in Toronto, Ontario. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto's MA creative writing program, and his work has been featured in Ricepaper magazine.

But the accounts of those in his circle of friends, lovers, and enemies become increasingly contradictory, murky, and suspect. Is everyone lying, or just telling their own subjective version of the truth? As the literary investigation unfolds and a chorus of Bevilacqua's peers piece together the fractured reality of his life, thirty years after his death, only the reader holds the power of final judgment. In All Men Are Liars, Alberto Manguel pays homage to literature's inventions and explores whether we can ever truly know someone, and the question of how, by whom, and for what, we ourselves will be remembered.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: Putting Trials on Trial Elaine Craig, 2018-02-16 Less than one percent of the sexual assaults that occur each year in Canada result in legal sanction for those who commit these offences. Survivors often distrust and fear the criminal justice process, and as a result, over ninety percent of sexual assaults go unreported. Unfortunately, their fears are well founded. In this thorough evaluation of the legal culture and courtroom practices prevalent in sexual assault prosecutions, Elaine Craig provides an even-handed account of the ways in which the legal profession unnecessarily - and sometimes unlawfully - contributes to the trauma and re-victimization experienced by those who testify as sexual assault complainants. Gathering conclusive evidence from interviews with experienced lawyers across Canada, reported case law, lawyer memoirs, recent trial transcripts, and defence lawyers' public statements and commercial advertisements, Putting Trials on Trial demonstrates that - despite prominent contestations - complainants are regularly subjected to abusive, humiliating, and discriminatory treatment when they turn to the law to respond to sexual violations. In pursuit of trial practices that are less harmful to sexual assault complainants as well as survivors of sexual violence more broadly, Putting Trials on Trial makes serious, substantiated, and necessary claims about the ethical and cultural failures of the Canadian legal profession.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: National Puzzlers' League Cryptic Crosswords Joshua Kosman, Henri Picciotto, 2005-11 The National Puzzlers' League (NPL) was founded in 1883 and is the oldest puzzlers' organization in the world. For over 100 years, crosswords and other word puzzles that appear in the NPL's monthly magazine, The Enigma, could be enjoyed only by NPL members. Now, for the first time, a selection of the league's favorite cryptic crosswords is available in book form for puzzle fans everywhere to enjoy. Unlike regular crossword puzzles, each clue in a cryptic crossword has two parts--one that's straightforward and one that involves one or more types of wordplay--and part of the fun is determining which part is which and what type of wordplay is involved. For example, Shoestring allowances lead to tears (11) is a cryptic clue for LACERATIONS. The straightforward part of the clue is tears, which is a definition for LACERATIONS. The wordplay part of the clue is Shoestring allowances which can be expressed as LACE + RATIONS which lead to LACERATIONS. The number in parentheses tells you the number and length of the answer words--in this case, it's one 11-letter word. Another example, with a different type of wordplay is Rearrange, rearrange ram's front (9) which is a cryptic clue for TRANSFORM. Rearrange is a straightforward definition of TRANSFORM and rearrange ram's front tells you to rearrange, or anagram, the nine letters in ram's front giving you the nine-letter word TRANSFORM. One of most fascinating things about cryptics is that the clues are a combination of tremendous creativity and imagination, on one hand, and strict, formal rules, on the other. This book contains 45 variety cryptics from members of the NPL, many of them by distinguished puzzle authors, as well as a foreword by Will Shortz, the New York Times crossword editor and the NPL's official historian PuzzleMeter: Difficulty--Very Difficult; Style--Contemporary] cryptic crossword globe and mail: Full Disclosure Beverley McLachlin, 2019-08-27 #1 NATIONAL BESTSELLER SHORTLISTED FOR THE ARTHUR ELLIS AWARDS From the former Chief Justice of Canada—a riveting thriller starring Jilly Truitt, a rising young defense attorney faced with a case that hits close to home. When everyone has something to hide, the truth is the only defense. There's nothing Jilly Truitt likes more than winning a case, especially against her former mentor, prosecutor Cy Kenge. Jilly has baggage, the residue of a dark time in a series of foster homes, but that's in the past. Now she's building her own criminal defense firm and making a name for herself as a tough-as-nails lawyer willing to take risks in the courtroom. When the affluent and enigmatic Vincent Trussardi is accused of his wife Laura's murder, Jilly agrees to defend him, despite predictions that the case is a sure loser and warnings from those close to her to stay away from the Trussardi family. Determined to prove everyone wrong, Jilly investigates Laura's death, hoping to discover a shred of evidence that might give the jury a reasonable doubt. Instead, she is confronted by damning evidence and uncooperative witnesses at every turn. Someone isn't telling the truth, but who? With her reputation and Vincent's life on the line, Jilly tries to unravel the web of secrets surrounding Laura's murder. As she digs deeper, she uncovers a startling revelation that will change not only the case, but her life forever. From the gritty streets of Vancouver to the fateful halls of justice, Full Disclosure is a razor-sharp thriller that pulses with authenticity and intrigue.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: The Making of Zombie Wars Aleksandar Hemon, 2015-09-10 The Making of Zombie Wars is a hilarious black comedy from Aleksandar Hemon, celebrated author of The Lazarus Project. Script idea #142: Aliens undercover as cabbies abduct the fiancée of the main character, who has to find a way to a remote planet to save her. Josh Levin is an aspiring screenwriter teaching English as a Second Language classes in Chicago. His laptop is full of ideas, but the only one to really take root is Zombie Wars. When Josh comes home to discover his landlord, an unhinged army vet, rifling through his dirty laundry, he decides to move in with his girlfriend, Kimmy. Script idea #185: Teenager discovers his girlfriend's beloved grandfather was a guard in a Nazi death camp. The boy's grandparents are survivors, but he's tantalizingly close to achieving deflowerment, so when a Nazi-hunter arrives in town in pursuit of Grandpa, he has to distract him long enough to get laid. It's domestic bliss – for a moment. But Josh becomes entangled with a student, a Bosnian woman named Ana, whose husband is jealous and violent. Script idea #196: Rock star high out of his mind freaks out during a show, runs offstage, and is lost in streets crowded with his hallucinations. The teenage fan who finds him keeps the rock star for himself for the night. Mishaps and adventures follow. Disaster ensues and, as Josh's choices move from silly to profoundly absurd, Aleksandar Hemon's The Making of Zombie Wars takes on real consequence. 'The Making of Zombie Wars is crazy in the best sense of the word, and very few authors could have pulled it off' – NPR cryptic crossword globe and mail: The Sun Is a Compass Caroline Van Hemert, 2019-03-19 For fans of Cheryl Strayed, the gripping story of a biologist's human-powered journey from the Pacific Northwest to the Arctic to rediscover her love of birds, nature, and adventure. During graduate school, as she conducted experiments on the peculiarly misshapen beaks of chickadees, ornithologist Caroline Van Hemert began to feel stifled in the isolated, sterile environment of the lab. Worried that she was losing her passion for the scientific research she once loved, she was compelled to experience wildness again, to be guided by the sounds of birds and to follow the trails of animals. In March of 2012, she and her husband set off on a 4,000-mile wilderness journey from the Pacific rainforest to the Alaskan Arctic, traveling by rowboat, ski, foot, raft, and canoe. Together, they survived harrowing dangers while also experiencing incredible moments of joy and grace -- migrating birds silhouetted against the moon, the steamy breath of caribou, and the bond that comes from sharing such experiences. A unique blend of science, adventure, and personal narrative, The Sun is a Compass explores the bounds of the physical body and the tenuousness of life in the company of the creatures who make their homes in the wildest places left in North America. Inspiring and beautifully written, this love letter to nature is a lyrical testament to the resilience of the human spirit. Winner of the 2019 Banff Mountain Book Competition: Adventure Travel cryptic crossword globe and mail: 101 Cryptic Crosswords Fraser Simpson, 2001-06 These puzzles - taken from the celebrated pages of The New Yorker magazine - offer more challenges per 'empty square' than the average crossword! Every cryptic has a twist, a little something extra, a double-dose of difficulty. That's because the clues all have two parts: a definition half and a wordplay half, with anagrams, reversals, containers, and lots of other word games built in. For example, here's a clue: 'Reportedly lost in fog. (4 letters).' Got it? It's 'mist' - a homonym for 'missed' and also a synonym for 'fog'. An introduction enlightens you on all the intricacies of solving cryptic crosswords, and of course the solutions appear at the end with tricks behind the clues explained. It may take a little practice to get the hang of these, but once you do, you'll be hooked for good!

cryptic crossword globe and mail: The Rehearsal Eleanor Catton, 2010-05-17 A teacher's affair with his underage student jolts a group of teenage girls into a new awareness of their own power. Their nascent desires surprise even themselves as they find the practice room where they rehearse with their saxophone teacher is the safe place where they can test out their abilities to attract and manipulate. It seems their every act is a performance, every platform a stage. But when the local drama school turns the story into their year-end show, the real world and the world of the theater are forced to meet. With the dates of the performances -- the musicians' and the acting students' -- approaching, the dramas, real and staged, begin to resemble each other, until they merge in a climax worthy of both life and art.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: This Eden Ed O'Loughlin, 2021-06-10 This Eden is a smart modern-day adventure reminiscent of both the cyber noir novels of William Gibson and the golden age of espionage fiction. 'An incredibly fast-paced literary thriller, tricky & crammed with ideas, beautifully written, occupying its own unique territory somewhere between Graham Greene & William Gibson' Kevin Power Ever felt like you were living in a dystopian tech thriller? That's because you are... Michael is out of his depth. The closest he ever came to working in tech was when he rode a delivery bike for a food app in Vancouver. Yet when his coder girlfriend dies, he is inexplicably headhunted by sinister tech mogul Campbell Fess, who transplants him to Silicon Valley. There, a reluctant female spy named Aoife lures him into the hands of Towse, an enigmatic war-gamer, who tricks them both into joining his quest to save the world, and reality itself, from the deadliest weapon ever invented. Hunted by government agents and corporate goons, manipulated at every turn by the philosophising Towse, Aoife and Michael find themselves in an intercontinental chase which will take them from California to New York, from the forests of Uganda to Jerusalem, Gaza, Alexandria and Paris, and to a final showdown with the truth in Aoife's native Ireland. Fast-moving, exhilarating and tense, This Eden is both a classic spy novel and speculative fiction for the here and the now. O'Loughlin adapts the propulsive thriller form to create a sharp yet passionate account of a world under mortal threat from cyber-warfare, feral money, runaway technology, and a cynical onslaught on truth itself.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: Dear Life Alice Munro, 2012-11-13 WINNER OF THE NOBEL PRIZE© IN LITERATURE 2013 A New York Times Notable Book A Washington Post Notable Work of Fiction A Best Book of the Year: The Atlantic, NPR, San Francisco Chronicle, Vogue, AV Club In story after story in this brilliant new collection, Alice Munro pinpoints the moment a person is forever altered by a chance encounter, an action not taken, or a simple twist of fate. Her characters are flawed and fully human: a soldier returning from war and avoiding his fiancée, a wealthy woman deciding whether to confront a blackmailer, an adulterous mother and her neglected children, a guilt-ridden father, a young teacher jilted by her employer. Illumined by Munro's unflinching insight, these lives draw us in with their quiet depth and surprise us with unexpected turns. And while most are set in her signature territory around Lake Huron, some strike even closer to home: an astonishing suite of four autobiographical tales offers an unprecedented glimpse into Munro's own childhood. Exalted by her clarity of vision and her unparalleled gift for storytelling, Dear Life shows how strange, perilous, and extraordinary ordinary life can be.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: Into the Grey Zone Adrian Owen, 2017-09-05 In 2006 Dr Adrian Owen and his team made medical history. They discovered a new realm of consciousness, a twilight zone somewhere between life and death. They called this the Grey Zone. The people who inhabit the Grey Zone are frequently labelled as being irretrievably lost, with no awareness and no sense of self. The shocking truth is that they are often still there, an intact mind trapped deep inside a broken body and brain, hearing everything around them, experiencing emotions, thoughts, pleasure and pain, just like the rest of us. Not quite living, and not quite gone, they have existed silently in these shadowlands. But now, through Dr Owen's pioneering techniques, we can talk to them - and they can talk back. These shifting boundaries of consciousness have shaken the architecture of our sense of self. We have known for a long time that a body does not define a person - but what if a brain does not define a mind? What does it mean if a mind can exist unharmed within a deeply damaged brain? Through cutting edge research and case studies that are poignant, tragic and uplifting, Dr Owen maps this inner universe of the self, showing us what it means to be alive and human.

cryptic crossword globe and mail: The Equivalents Maggie Doherty, 2020-05-19 FINALIST FOR THE NATIONAL BOOK CRITICS CIRCLE AWARD In 1960, Harvard's sister college, Radcliffe, announced the founding of an Institute for Independent Study, a "messy experiment" in women's education that offered paid fellowships to those with a PhD or "the equivalent" in artistic achievement. Five of the women who received fellowships—poets Anne Sexton and Maxine Kumin, painter Barbara Swan, sculptor Marianna Pineda, and writer Tillie Olsen—quickly formed deep bonds with one another that would inspire and sustain their most ambitious work. They called themselves "the Equivalents." Drawing from notebooks, letters, recordings, journals, poetry, and prose, Maggie Doherty weaves a moving narrative of friendship and ambition, art and activism, love and heartbreak, and shows how the institute spoke to the condition of women on the cusp of liberation. "Rich and powerful. . . . A love story about art and female friendship." —Harper's Magazine "Reads like a novel, and an intense one at that. . . . The Equivalents is an observant, thoughtful and energetic account." —Margaret Atwood, The Globe and Mail (Toronto) cryptic crossword globe and mail: Burmese Lessons Karen Connelly, 2010-05-18 Orange Prize-winner Karen Connelly's compelling memoir about her journey to Burma, where she fell in love with a leader of the Burmese rebel army. When Karen Connelly goes to Burma in 1996 to gather information for a series of articles, she discovers a place of unexpected beauty and generosity. She also encounters a country ruled by a brutal military dictatorship that imposes a code of censorship and terror. Carefully seeking out the regime's critics, she witnesses mass demonstrations, attends protests, interviews detained opposition leader Aung San Suu Kyi and flees from police. When it gets too risky for her to stay, Connelly flies back to Thailand, but she cannot leave Burma behind. Connelly's interest in the political turns more personal on the Thai-Burmese border, where she falls in love with Maung, the handsome and charismatic leader of one of Burma's many resistance groups. After visiting Maung's military camp in the jungle, she faces an agonizing decision: Maung wants to marry Connelly and have a family with her, but if she marries this man she also weds his world and his lifelong cause. Struggling to weigh the idealism of her convictions against the harsh realities of life on the border, Connelly transports the reader into a world as dangerous as it is enchanting. In radiant prose layered with passion, regret, sensuality and wry humor, Burmese Lessons tells the captivating story of how one woman came to love a wounded, beautiful country and a gifted man who has given his life to the struggle for political change.
