Domingo Faustino Sarmiento (1811-1888) was Argentina's leading writer, educator, and politician of the nineteenth century, and served as President from 1868 to 1874. Of his several autobiographies, the best-known Recollections of a Provincial Past is one of the indisputable classics of Spanish American literature, as well as one of the earliest autobiographies written in the Americas in Spanish. Written in exile in 1850, the memoirs describe his childhood and adolescence in an Andean province whose customs were still those of a colony. Sarmiento presents his life as the triumph of civilization over barbarism; looking back on his youth, he measures his wealth and strength by the accumulation of enriching personal and political experiences. He compares himself to the newly independent Argentina, claiming to be a historically representative individual whose trajectory serves to illuminate contemporary South America.

Edith Moss Jackson The Worthy of My Race: Social Sketches, is a bilingual edition of Jorge Miguel Fords biographies, published in 1899. The United Nations, declaring that 2012 initiates the Decade of the Afrodescendant, encourages the recovery of such texts. This translation broadens readership of the biographies to English speakers, while offering the Spanish text for others desiring the original. Fords difficult style required that the translator render the text with flexibility. Ford selected fourteen Afro-Argentine men as motivational icons for contemporary Afro-Argentine youths who, like the massive waves of European immigrants, were unaware of the Afrodescendants crucial contributions to the nations construction and development. These biographies, with original photographs, document the achievements of Afro-Argentines that challenged the prevailing racialized ideologies of the period.

Esta obra desentraña cómo se gestó la Declaración de la Independencia Argentina. Desde el arribo de los congresales a Tucumán, con las instrucciones que traían de sus provincias; prosigue narrando cómo el "Redactor", el periódico oficial del Congreso de Tucumán, difundió la noticia de la Independencia a lo largo y lo ancho de las Provincias Unidas. En las vísperas del Bicentenario, esta obra intenta responder varias preguntas que, desde siempre, han atrapado a los argentinos: ¿Cómo amaneció el 9 de Julio de 1916?. ¿Cómo se preparó el debate para ese día? ¿Qué temas se trataron? ¿A qué hora comenzó la sesión y a qué hora concluyó? ¿A qué hora aproximadamente se declaró la Independencia argentina?. ¿Qué asunto les llevó a los congresales más tiempo debatir? ¿Qué influencia tuvo la presencia del Gral. Manuel Belgrano para la Declaración de la Independencia? ¿Quién la redactó? ¿Cómo concluyó esa memorable y gloriosa jornada? El autor también nos introduce, en otros temas curiosos, poco conocidos y apasionantes: ¿Qué influencia tuvieron los precedentes norteamericanos en la Declaración de la Independencia Argentina? ¿Hasta qué punto la Declaración de la Independencia estadounidense sirvió de referencia para la nuestra? Luego de la declaración, ¿qué pasó el 10 de Julio de 1816 y cómo fueron los famosos festejos de esa noche? ¿Cómo se juró la Independencia en Tucumán y en Buenos Aires? Finalmente, esta obra desarrolla en un tema crucial, que siempre ha intrigado a los argentinos: ¿qué pasó con el Acta de la Declaración de la Independencia?: que conecta con la inevitable pregunta de: ¿Quién fue la última persona que la tuvo en su poder?
