Understanding Forced Male Chastity

Forced male chastity refers to the practice of restricting a male's ability to engage in sexual activity, typically through the use of physical devices or behavioral controls. Unlike voluntary chastity, forced male chastity often involves an element of dominance and submission, where one partner (the keyholder) exerts control over the other's sexual release. This dynamic can be part of consensual BDSM relationships or specific power exchange arrangements. The key concepts include control, denial, and psychological teasing, making forced male chastity a multifaceted topic that blends physical restraint with mental stimulation. Participants
